

2022 Annual Report Highlights

Thanking you—the chagemakers!

Last year, more than 1,000 people like you made a difference for the places you love

For more than 35 years, people like you, our members, volunteers, and partners have made the incredible possible. Your support has been instrumental in the protection of over 7,500 acres of land, water, and public trails.

Thanks to growing community support, last year we were able to increase our commitment to area youth, trails, and local efforts to enhance the quality of life in the region. Let’s take a moment to celebrate all we have done as a community, including last year’s monumental public effort to save the Ricketson Farm—Stowe’s largest remaining working farm.

Scan this QR code to view our full member list or visit stowelandtrust.org/donors

Photo by Willem Heydendael @teamlasercats

2022 Financial Report

More than numbers—measuring your impact

Use of Funds

- Land Protection & Stewardship
- Management & Administration
- Fundraising & Membership Development

Sources of Funds

- Individuals
- Grants
- Events
- Businesses

Financial Statement Stowe Land Trust’s fiscal year runs from October 1 to September 30. We conduct an annual review of all financial data. This review and our IRS form 990 are available on our website and by request.

217 acres of farmland, forestland, and wetlands conserved at the Ricketson Farm. Ensuring the next generation of farmers have room to grow.

100+ miles of public trails cared for. Securing a healthy, accessible, and sustainable future for public recreation.

700+ people participated in public events. Creating a community that cares for and values land, water, and each other.

“

Woah! This place is from ancient times! We get to go inside?”

4 year old student
Apple Tree Learning Centers

“Our students loved visiting the Mill Trail cabin. It was a magical destination that sparked their interest in Stowe’s history.”

Kendra McGuire
Apple Tree Learning Centers

And there is still plenty more work to do.
Your support is making incredible things possible, in 2023 and beyond!